

PROHIBITION

IS POKER NEXT?

It is not an idle question. Congress is trying to make outlaws of the 23 million Americans who enjoy playing poker online.

Poker has a rich history in the United States. Presidents, generals, Supreme Court justices, Members of Congress, and average citizens have played this game of skill with family and friends for more than 100 years. Some in Congress, though, believe that putting the word “Internet” in front of poker now makes this American tradition unacceptable.

Individuals who enjoy poker should not be subjected to heavy-handed government intrusion into their personal decisions. However you feel about gambling online or around the kitchen table, gambling with liberty is far more risky.

KEEP POKER LEGAL. DEFEND AN AMERICAN TRADITION.
